OUR COLLECTIBLE PIECES

Our collection of collectible pieces represents the epitome of craftsmanship, where each item is thoughtfully curated and meticulously crafted. These pieces are not merely products; they are works of art that embody a harmonious blend of creativity, precision, and timeless design.

SLOWLY MADE TO UNCOMPROMISING STANDARDS WITH A COLLABORATIVE SPIRIT

In a world driven by rapid production and fleeting trends, we take a deliberate and measured approach to creating our collectibles. Each piece is slowly made, honoring the traditional methods of craftsmanship while integrating modern techniques. This careful and intentional process ensures that every detail, no matter how minute, is executed to perfection. Our commitment to quality means that we adhere to the highest standards at every stage of production, from the selection of materials to the final finishing touches. This meticulous attention to detail guarantees that each piece not only meets but exceeds expectations for durability, beauty, and function. Moreover, our process is deeply collaborative, involving artisans, designers, and craftspeople who bring their unique skills and perspectives to the table, resulting in a richer and more diverse creative outcome.

BALANCING THE INTERSECTION OF ART AND DESIGN

Our collectibles occupy a unique space where art and design intersect. They are more than functional objects; they are expressions of artistic vision and design excellence. Each piece tells a story, evoking emotion and inspiring admiration. The design is purposeful and intuitive, ensuring usability without compromising on aesthetic value.

ARTISTIC VISION

Aesthetic Excellence: Each piece is designed with a keen eye for detail, ensuring it is visually captivating and artistically significant. The forms, colors, and textures are carefully chosen to create a cohesive and striking visual experience.

Symbolic Meaning: Our collectibles often carry deeper meanings or themes, reflecting cultural, historical, or personal narratives. This symbolic richness adds layers of appreciation for those who engage with them.

DESIGN INTEGRITY

Functional Beauty: While our pieces are undeniably beautiful, they are also designed to be practical. This duality ensures that they enhance the aesthetic appeal of a space while serving a functional purpose.

Innovative Craftsmanship: We push the boundaries of traditional design by incorporating innovative techniques and materials. This fusion of old and new creates pieces that are both contemporary and timeless.

THE VALUE OF COLLECTIBILITY

Owning one of our collectible pieces is more than acquiring an object; it is investing in a legacy of art and design. These pieces are created to be cherished and passed down through generations, increasing in value and significance over time. Each collectible is a testament to our dedication to excellence, embodying a rich tradition of craftsmanship and a forward-thinking approach to design.

Our selection of collectible pieces stands as a testament to the delicate balance between art and design. Slowly made to uncompromising standards with a collaborative spirit, these pieces are a celebration of meticulous craftsmanship and innovative vision.

They are designed to be not only functional but also deeply meaningful, making them treasures that enrich any collection and elevate any space.

QUEEN NENZIMA SERVER

QUEEN NENZIMA CONSOLE

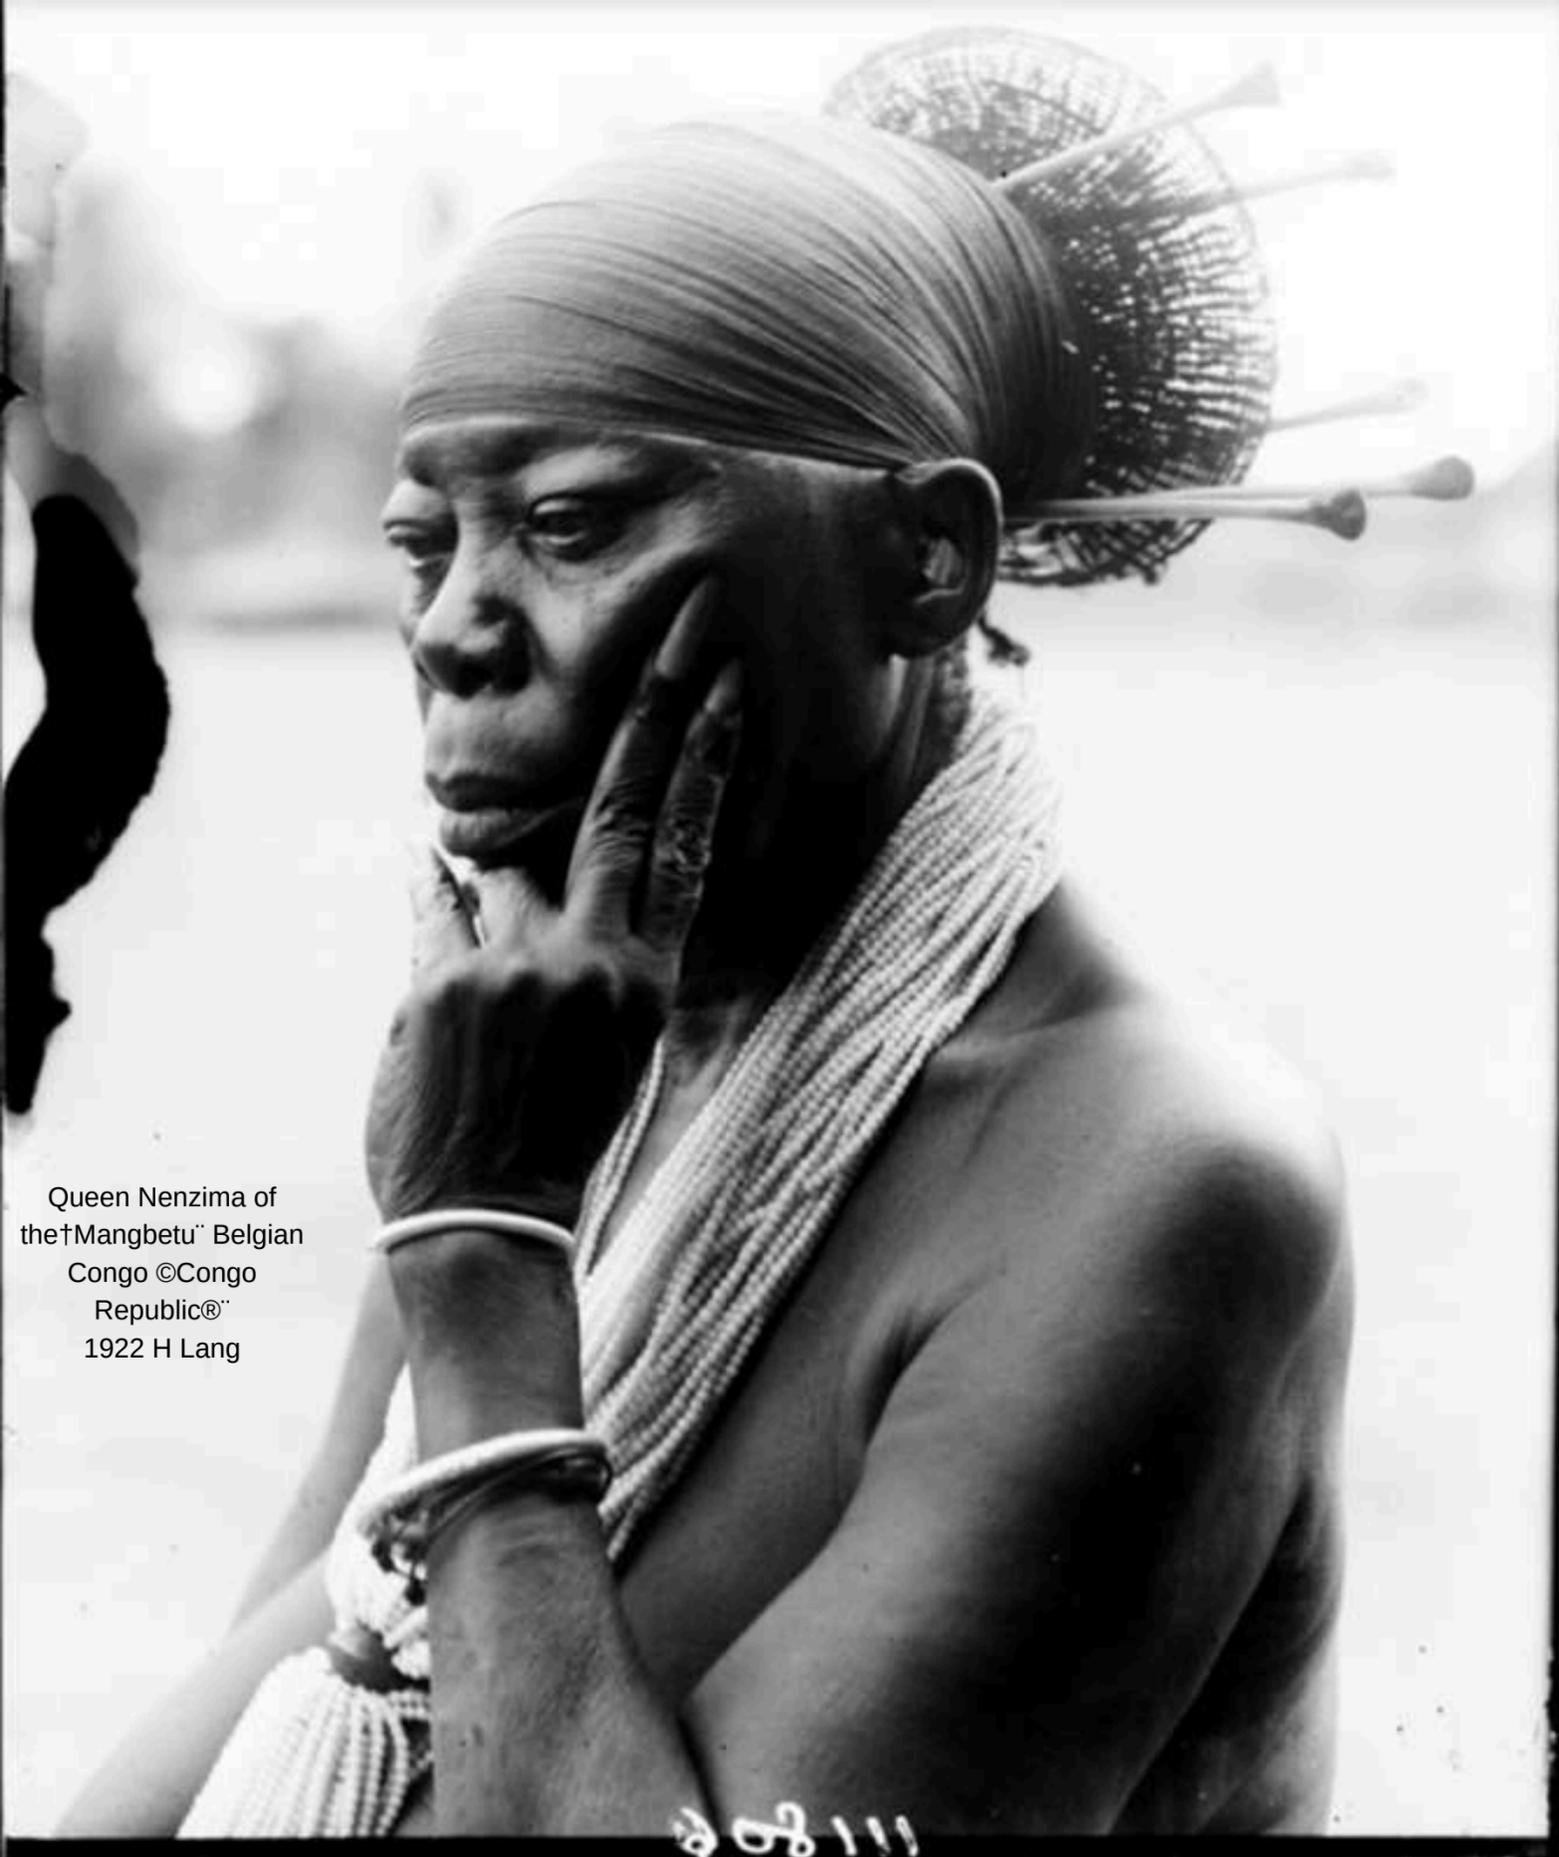

The Queen Nenzima console is a collectible piece inspired in its boldness by the elongated, sculptural, fine coiffure/hairstyle of Queen Nenzima of the Mangbetu tribe in the DRC during the 1920's & forms part of the 2018 African Crowns Collection.

The Queen Nenzima console is made from powder-coated steel frame with a solid terrazzo top and door inserts and a bamboo shelf within.

Designed and released under the collection name African crowns the NENZIMA SERVER pays homage to queen Nenzima of the Mangbetu tribe who was the younger sister of the nineteenth-century ruler, Mbunza and the wife of Okondo, she was reported to be the one of the most powerful person in the court in the first decade of the 20th century.

The overall shape, lines and form of the server along with the weaved detail elements are all inspired by the distinctive look of the elongated heads of most Mangbetu women at the time, resulting from the cultural practice of 'Lipombo', which was a status symbol among the Mangbetu ruling classes at the beginning of the century. Along with the elongated head, the hairstyles accompanying the overall look was an oval or funnel-shaped coiffure which ended in an outward halo, originally symbolic of high social status, this was considered exceptionally attractive and powerful and hence the inclusion in TheUrbanative's African Crowns Collection.

The pattern for the side panels of this piece was inspired by the "stiletto" nails that Queen Nenzima was known for. By patterning and incorporating the sharp edges reminiscent of the Queen's nails, a unique design was created to adorn the sides of this piece as another ode to her and her story.

SELAMAWI CERAMIC VESSELS

IN COLLABORATION WITH JAN ERNST

The Selamawi ceramics form part of the Homecoming Collection a 24 piece collection created along with an amazing local community of makers, designers and craft people. The candelabra along with its twin vessel as well as wall hanging vessels were made in collaboration with Cape Town based Jan Ernst. The collection aims to show that the concept of home is not just a physical place but a feeling of warmth, comfort, peace, and a sanctuary for our dreams, hopes and all things we hold dear represented by functional pieces.

Inspired by African vernacular architecture, each piece incorporates form, texture, colour, and patterns, and is named in relation to words that signify home in various African languages. "Selamawi" is a term derived from the Amharic language, spoken in Ethiopia. It means "peaceful" or "one who brings peace." It's often used as a name in Ethiopia. LUMINOUS MAKEBA

Named after the legendary South African singer and activist Miriam Makeba, the Luminous Makeba pays tribute to her legacy as a powerful cultural figure and icon of the “Black is Beautiful” movement of the 1960s. Revered for her music and activism, Makeba often celebrated traditional African hairstyles, using her platform to champion African identity and pride.

This collectible sculptural table lamp draws inspiration from the original Makeba Table Lamp and reimagines it in new materiality and form. Crafted from powder-coated steel and a textured stainless steel sheet with a water-like surface, it features cascading stainless steel ball chains that mimic flowing woven locks – evoking both movement and memory.

The Luminous Makeba is more than a lighting piece – it’s a contemporary tribute to heritage, beauty, and resilience, blending symbolism and material storytelling in honour of an African icon.

INFINITE FULANI 000

The Infinite Fulani was a collaborative piece driven by the idea of future Heirloom, spearheaded by the American Hardwood Export Council supported by Always Welcome, Houtlander and Bos Timbers.

Heirlooms to us are stories that get shared and retold over time; this story can be translated & encapsulated in a physical piece. The Idea of the Infinite Fulani is that of an Heirloom that is constantly evolving, gathering and changing over time as it is passed down from generation to generation, making both the chair and the meaning thereof infinite. An Heirloom pieces that acts a s functional space to collect memories.

The Ombre finish illustrating the passing of time, contemporary enough to fit into a modern space with a deeper meaning of the evolution of the user's journey.

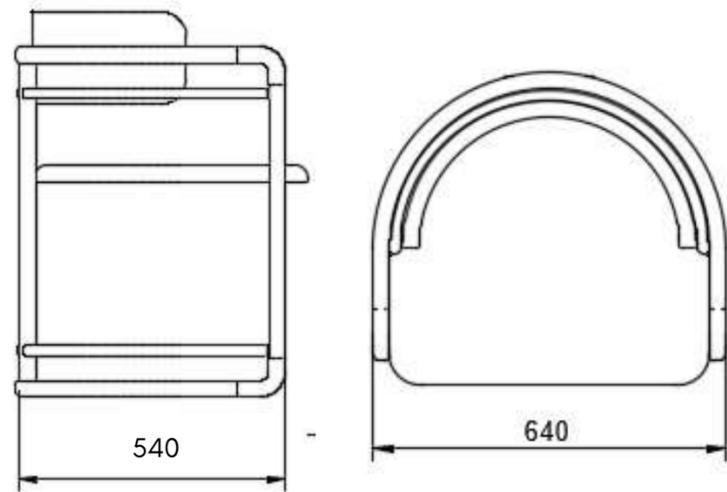

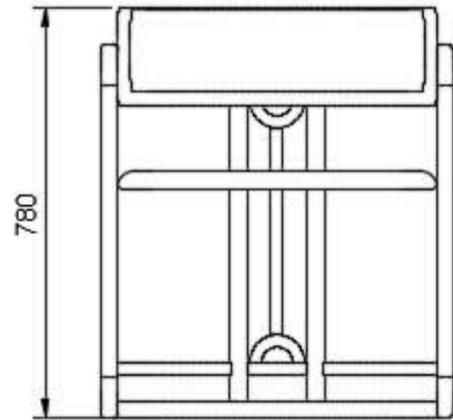

The Infinite Fulani Chair in American red oak is based on the 2018 Fulani chair initially launched and manufactured in steel and we set out to, revisit and add to the original story by exploring new materials and therein new ways of making.

“We aspire to be a brand that not only celebrates stories but one that respects the way in which we tell those stories,” the design and manufacturing approach to everything we do at TheUrbanative is to always be in conversation with the chosen material, the properties and limits thereof; to let the material have a say in the final piece.

This is a one of a kind piece.

AYA COLLECTION

At the core of this collection is the influence of Adinkra symbols, originating from the Ashanti and Akan kingdoms of West Africa. Each symbol represents related concepts entered around an ideal.

The collection focuses on the Aya symbol, pronounced "eye-ah," representing resourcefulness and endurance. Part of the 700 Adinkra symbols linked to the Gyaman kingdom, Aya or "fern" signifies the ability to overcome adversities, symbolized by the hardy West African fern.

The collection's materials include powder-coated recycled steel, reclaimed ostrich egg, and brass elements—these are intentionally chosen to reflect the symbol's deeper meaning. The Aya Collection seeks to honor and promote a deeper understanding of Adinkra symbology, ensuring its preservation and appreciation today.

Year of creation: 2024

Description:

This console unit features a sturdy framework made of powder-coated mild steel, ensuring durability and a sleek appearance. The surface showcases a mosaic of reclaimed ostrich egg shells embedded in epoxy for a unique, eco-friendly touch. Brass elements enhance both stability and aesthetic appeal.

The Aya or "fern" Adinkra symbol embodies endurance and resourcefulness. It signifies the ability to overcome adversities and endure difficulties, reflecting the hardiness of the West African fern plant. Aya, pronounced as 'eye-ah,' is part of the 700 Adinkra symbols associated with the Gyaman kingdom in Côte d'Ivoire and Ashanti culture in Ghana. The word "Aya" is derived from the Twi language, meaning "fern."

The stylised and simple forms of the pieces that form this collection are inherent of the perceived simplicity of the andrika symbols with a focus on the Aya symbol. However upon further exploration the complexity and layered approach of the design and manufacturing of these pieces is akin to the rich and layered nuances of the Andrika symbols that inspired the collection.

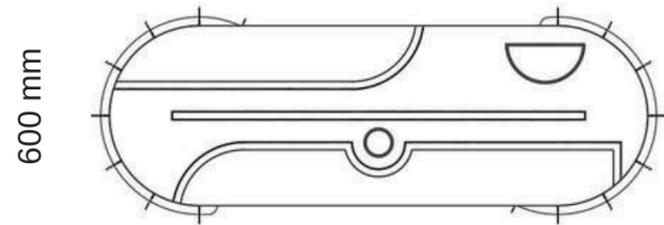

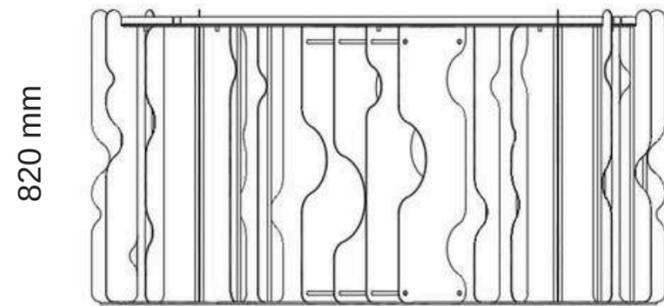

In an effort to explore the message of resourcefulness and endurance of the Aya symbol, the primary materials used for the manufacturing of the collection's pieces are layered in that approach.

This piece has not been fully launched yet and is currently been showcased at the Gallery of Light Showcase by One to One by Martin Doller in Cape Town, South Africa and thereafter is schedule to formally launch at the Dakar 2024 Biennale in October 2024.

AYA VESSEL I: ENDURANCE

Year of Design: 2020

Year of Creation: 2026

Description:

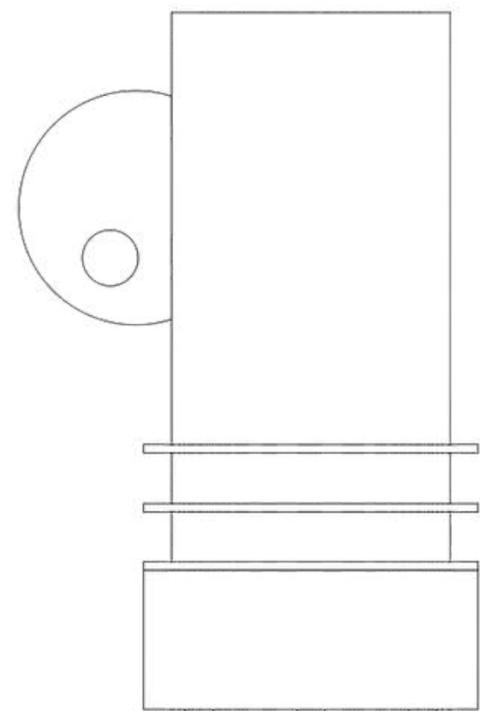

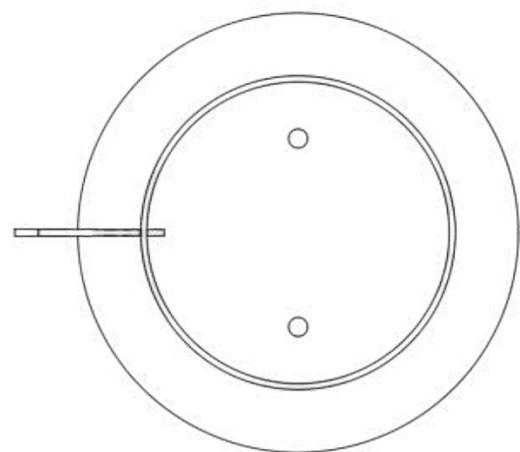

This contemporary vessel presents a sculptural yet restrained form, combining a powder-coated mild steel body with layered stepped detailing and a solid timber base. The cylindrical silhouette is interrupted by subtle stacked rings that introduce rhythm and grounding, while a brass-plated circular tab detail adds a considered accent, balancing utility with ornament. The contrast between matte metal, warm timber, and brass creates a quiet material dialogue, allowing the piece to read as both functional object and collectible form.

The Aya or “fern” Adinkra symbol embodies endurance and resourcefulness. It signifies the ability to overcome adversities and endure difficulties, reflecting the hardiness of the West African fern plant. Aya, pronounced as “eye-ah,” forms part of the more than 700 Adinkra symbols associated with the Gyaman kingdom in Côte d’Ivoire and Ashanti culture in Ghana. The word “Aya” originates from the Twi language, meaning “fern.”

The stylised, simplified geometry of the vessel draws from the visual language of Adinkra symbols, where clarity of form communicates deeper meaning. At first glance the piece appears minimal and direct, yet closer observation reveals layered transitions, precise proportions, and deliberate detailing that echo the complexity embedded within the symbolic tradition that inspires the collection.

In exploring the messages of resilience and resourcefulness carried by the Aya symbol, the collection embraces a layered material approach. Steel, timber, and brass are combined in a way that highlights their individual character while functioning together as a unified whole. The vessel becomes an expression of endurance through structure, material integrity, and thoughtful making, translating cultural narrative into contemporary form.

AYA TRAY I: GROUNDING

Year of Design: 2020

Year of Creation: 2026

Description:

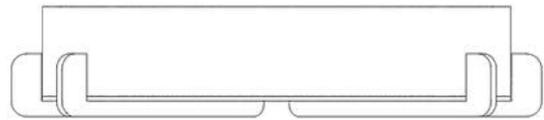

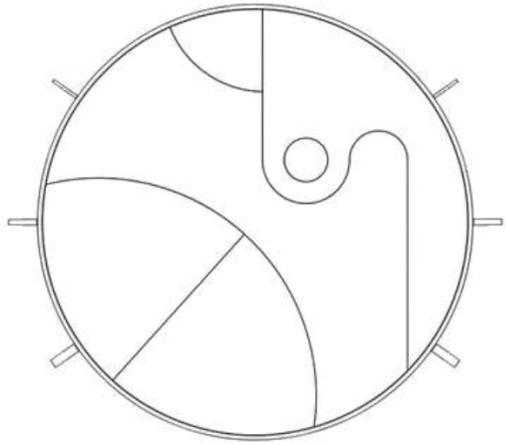

This contemporary tray explores sculptural form through the interplay of reclaimed timber and a powder-coated mild steel frame. The circular composition reveals a carefully balanced arrangement of contrasting wood tones, shaped into flowing geometric segments that suggest movement and continuity. Each timber component is selected from reclaimed material, allowing the natural grain, colour variation, and history of the wood to become an integral part of the design. As a result, no two pieces are alike, with every vessel carrying its own unique character and story.

The stylised geometry of this piece draws from the visual language of Adinkra symbols, where simplified forms carry layered meanings. At first glance the composition appears calm and resolved, yet closer observation reveals a complexity of joinery, grain direction, and proportion that reflects the depth of the cultural references informing the collection.

In exploring the themes of endurance and resourcefulness embodied by the Aya symbol, the vessel embraces a layered material approach. Reclaimed timber is given renewed purpose within a precise steel framework, celebrating both sustainability and craftsmanship. The piece becomes an expression of transformation, where material history and contemporary design converge to create an object that is both functional and collectible.
