Our Story

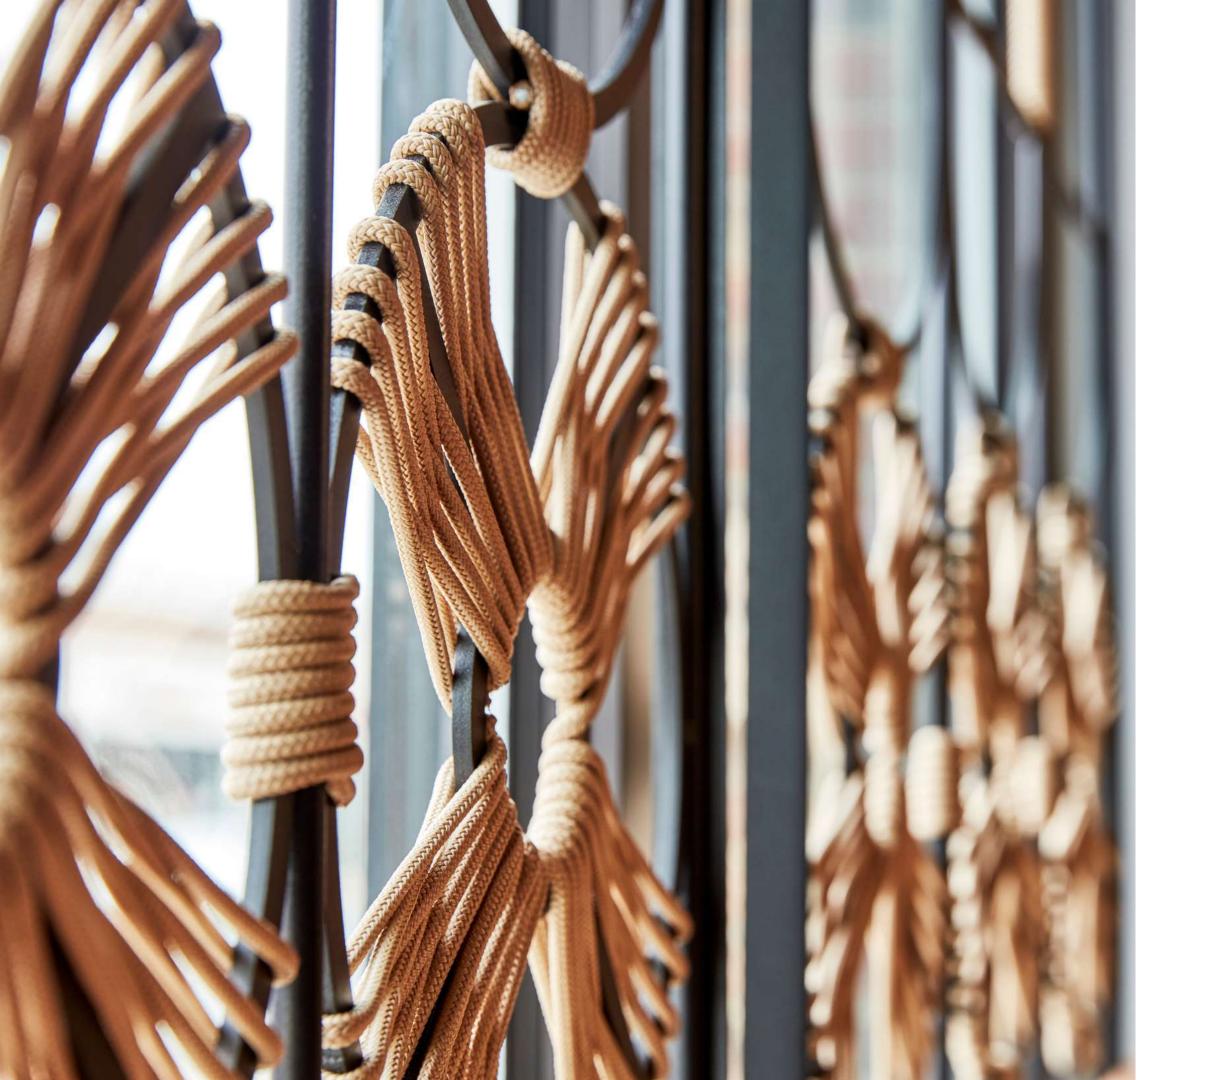

The Urbanative is a contemporary South African furniture and product design company based in Johannesburg.

The furniture and products are differentiated by the juxtaposition of abstracted African heritage inspirations with the functionality & aesthetic qualities of modern furniture silhouettes, materials & technologies; whilst guided by the philosophies of story telling, craft, collaboration and design evolution.

All of the products are designed and manufactured in South Africa. Started in 2017 by Mpho Vackier (a process engineer turned interior &furniture designer), TheUrbanative's work is a constant exploration of the role of culture and heritage representations. Along with that concepts of visibility & representation of African cultures in modern societies with the ultimate intention of telling African stories through modern furniture and product design.

NOT. JUST. FURNITURE.

What We BELIEVE

We BELIEVE that design should make life better.

We BELIEVE in the power of Form & Functionality.

We BELIEVE in authentic design.

We BELIEVE in telling African stories through design.

We BELIEVE in the importance of representation.

We BELIEVE simplicity is sophistication.

We BELIEVE that great design is effortless functionality that encourages human connection.

We BELIEVE in studio pets.
We BELIEVE in collaborating with amazing creatives globally!
We BELIEVE AFRICA is the ultimate place to be.

THEURBANATIVE

2017

Our introductory Ndebele range is inspired by cultural Ndebele Art, from the lines and forms (especially inspired by the artistic works of Esther Mahlangu) & other Ndebele artists & crafters, juxtaposed against the design elements of European mid-century as well as Bauhaus design. These design qualities include form & function, streamlined aesthetics, retaining the integrity of craft materials and practicality in design over beauty for the mere sake of beauty.

DONDO CATALOGUE

Of the countless names that the talking drum has been given, the tama is just one of them.

Across Africa it is known as the dondo, kalangu or gangan for example. It's history goes back at least as far as antiquity, where discoveries of its use and adaptation can be found among the West African folk who were living there during that period.

The talking drum was used for various activities namely: poetic declamations, the language of the instrument serving as a voice and as a poetic meaning in itself. It also allowed African storytellers (the bardesgriot) to let messages like the call to arms be heard over long distances.

THEURBANATIVE

- AFRICAN CROWNS COLLECTION -

b y

THEURBANATIVE

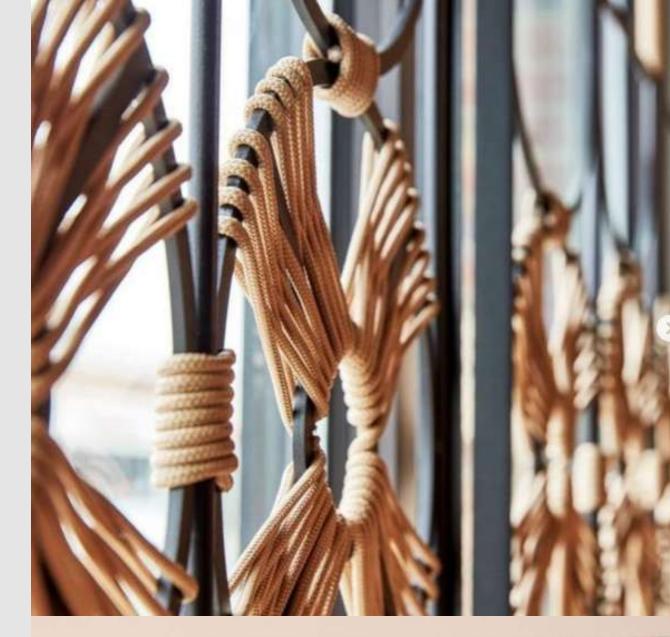

Our crowns collection is inspired by the lines, forms and textures of traditional African hairstyles throughout the African continent.

This collection celebrates the relationship between African hair and identity. In addition the pieces inspired by these forms explore the conversation around conventional & mainstream beauty standards and begins to challenge those standards and bring forth stories of representation.

Hair has always played a significant role in the culture of ancient African civilisations, it has been a symbol and disseminator of family background, social status, spirituality, fertility, differing tribes, and marital status.

This collection is a love letter to the magic of African Hair.

THE FEELING OF HOME IS UNIVERSAL

HOMECOMING - THE COLLECTION

THEURBANATIVE

This collection began with the design of the AKAYA (home:Xitsonga) Lounge Chair during the long and difficult Covid-19 lockdown in 2020 in South Africa. A year later and we are elated to reveal a new 24 piece collection created along with an amazing local community of makers, designers and craft people.

The aim and purpose of this collection to illustrate through design, colour, texture, form, line and feeling that the idea of home is not a physical place, but rather a feeling of warmth, comfort, peace and a sanctuary for our dreams and hopes.

This home grown collection comprises of sculptural lights, ceramics & candles, soft seating in the form of a generous couch and architecturally inspired ottoman, a modern take on an old school quilt and a beautifully crafted mirror piece. All the pieces have names that are inspired by the ideas of home in a multitude of languages from the Continent.

We invite you to come home with us.

As a brand we believe in telling African stories through design and with that belief this collection's forms, textures, lines and colour palette are all inspired by vernacular African architecture from Nigeria and Cameroon to Niger and Mali.

The rounded forms and relief details of the Musgum clay houses in Cameroon to the Architectural details of Niger vernacular architecture. The organic forms, lines & colours of these homes these have inspired the look & feel of our pieces from the Zorora quilt to the Pumzika couch in collaboration with the local fabric house; The Mill fabrics.

Mudziira (Shona: Warmth) Chandelier,

Dehinineti (Amharic: Safety) Drinks Console, Selamawi (Amharic: Peaceful) Wall Ceramic,

Zorora (Shona: relax) Quilt
& Pumzika (Swahili: rest) Couch
in collaboration with The Mill Fabrics

- photographed by Aart Verrips

The pieces of the collection whilst in form, texture. colour and patterns was inspired by some of the above listed African vernacular architectural design; the naming of the pieces were all inspired by words that define home & the feelings around home in a multitude of indigenous languages from the continent. We explored words that carry specific meanings & feelings in these languages such as our Dehinineti drinks server; meaning safety in Amharic (spoken in Ethiopia) to our Isinmi ottomans which relates to 'rest' in Yoruba (spoken in Nigeria).

We also explored names & meanings closer to home; our Hlutha table relates to the idea of being full /fullness/full belly in Xhosa; a beautiful illustration of not only being fed, but having a full heart too, Our Legae Tray. which means home in Tswana and the Hayani Tray, which means home in Tshivenda are also named after languages spoken in South Africa.

By naming the pieces of this collection in different languages from this continent not only allows us to celebrate in those languages, people & cultures but through the exploration we learn more about the stories surrounding them.

outdoor capsule collection

inspired by pieces within our past collections as well as summer memories spent in family gardens or stoeps sitting on steel & wire mesh chairs watching the sun set the use of the woven mesh is reminiscent of the very first outdoor furniture that most homes had in the 80s & early 90s; this is a love letter to those sweet summer memories in Mme's (Gran's) garden, catching up on the days events and listening to the sounds of the day winding down as with with all our pieces we endeavour to share & re-tell stories through furniture design & hope that this collection adds to your vast memories of never ending summer days
