

WADI PANEL SCREEN

Designed by TheUrbanative, the Wadi Screen is a freestanding spatial divider inspired by the Swahili word wadi, meaning valley. Layered hand-woven yarn and sculptural wool reliefs echo the shifting textures and rhythms of natural landscapes, translating material memory into contemporary form.

The screen combines a deliberately fabricated powder-coated steel frame with a hand-woven wool panel and a solid Kiaat wood base. The architectural steel structure provides clarity and rhythm, while the textile introduces softness, depth and visual permeability. The woven panel is produced in collaboration with Grey Room using wool supplied by Weluka, foregrounding wool as a primary structural and expressive material.

Finished in a red cherry stain, the Kiaat base marks an ongoing material exploration for the studio, extending colour into stained timber to create a cohesive dialogue between wood, metal, and textile.

WADI

noun

Wah-dee

WADI PANEL SCREEN

DIMENSIONS 1800 MM X 930MM X 250 MM

WEIGHT: 20 KG

SKU: WADSCR-01

POWDER-COATED STEEL FRAME
HAND-WOVEN WOOL PANEL
SOLID KIAAT WOOD BASE
WOOL YARN AND SCULPTURAL WOOL RELIEF DETAILING

PRICE: R 45 000.00 INCL. VAT

The Wadi Screen is a freestanding spatial divider inspired by the Swahili word wadi, meaning valley. Hand-woven wool textures evoke landscape rhythms and material memory.

A powder-coated steel frame and solid Kiaat base provide structure and balance. Stained timber and textile create a cohesive, contemporary material dialogue.

WADI

noun

WAH-dee